A bridge is a structure built to span a physical obstacle, such as a body of water, valley, or road, without closing the way underneath. It is constructed for the purpose of providing passage over the obstacle, usually something that can be detrimental to cross otherwise. There are many different designs that each serve a particular purpose and apply to different situations.

Introduction. While resource use globally is growing at high rates and has even accelerated in the last decade (Schaffartzik et al. 2014), it is becoming evident that the scale of humanity's metabolism is unsustainable and must be reduced. The material and energy resources required to extend the current metabolic pattern of the industrial countries to the rest of the world are most likely not ...
