question we ask now is 'how many times does 25 divide into 175 ?'. We guess the answer is 7, which we record above the 5 of 2675. This guess is important for what follows in polynomial division. We could base the guess on a rough estimate, how many times does 2 divide into 17, and the answer is 8. However 8 multiplied by 25 is 200, way over ...

Dividing. Polynomials can sometimes be divided using the simple methods shown on Dividing Polynomials. But sometimes it is better to use "Long Division" (a method similar to Long Division for Numbers) Numerator and Denominator. We can give each polynomial a name: the top polynomial is the numerator; the bottom polynomial is the denominator

We do the same thing with polynomial division. Since the remainder in this case is -7 and since the divisor is $3x + 1$, then I'll turn the remainder into a fraction (the remainder divided by the original divisor), and add this fraction to the polynomial across the top of the division symbol. Then my answer is this:

But the answer is still "simpler" Note: the result is a valid answer but is not a polynomial, because the last term $(1/3x)$ has division by a variable (x). Now, sometimes it helps to rearrange the top polynomial before dividing, as in this example: Long Division . If none of those methods work, we may need to use Polynomial Long Division.
