In signal processing, sampling is the reduction of a continuous-time signal to a discrete-time signal. A common example is the conversion of a sound wave (a continuous signal) to a sequence of samples (a discrete-time signal).. A sample is a value or set of values at a point in time and/or space.. A sampler is a subsystem or operation that extracts samples from a continuous signal.

In digital signal processing, downsampling and decimation are terms associated with the process of resampling in a multi-rate digital signal processing system. Both terms are used by various authors to describe the entire process, which includes lowpass filtering, or just the part of the process that does not include filtering. When downsampling (decimation) is performed on a sequence of ...
