BEST ANSWER: With a few passes you could probably get up to an inch. The limit is how deep you can safely cut with your router bit. You could probably make even thicker ones with a multi-step process (e.g. make the initial cut then drill a series of holes and carefully use a jigsaw to rough out the thicker piece, and finally finish the thicker piece).

BEST ANSWER: Best to order the layout jig and bit for easiest installation (& it's pretty cheap too) but if not, all you do is bore an appropriate sized hole for each end of the "dogbone" and a connector hole between each. This is on the underside of each part that you intend to join. Once you get the threads started, you just tighten each end down using an Allen wrench or the like.
